-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --
Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: on page 13, line 9, the phraseology "U.S. patent application" should be --U.S. provisional application--.

Appropriate correction is required.

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claim 22 is rejected under the judicially created doctrine of double patenting over claim 1 of U. S. Patent No. 6,684,572 B2 since the claims, if allowed, would improperly extend the "right to exclude" already granted in the patent.

The subject matter claimed in the instant application is fully disclosed in the patent and is covered by the patent since the patent and the application are claiming common subject matter, as follows: a jamb protection device, a resilient body, and a first and second compression surface engaging a first and second wall surface.

Furthermore, there is no apparent reason why applicant was prevented from presenting claims corresponding to those of the instant application during prosecution of the application, which matured into a patent. See In re Schneller, 397 F.2d 350, 158 USPQ 210 (CCPA 1968). See also MPEP § 804.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 22 is further rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. patent to Wilcox (1,620,933). Wilcox ('933) discloses a jamb protection device comprising an adjustable resilient body (1), a first and second compression surface (3) responsive to the adjustable resilient body (1), and a first and second wall surface (4, the corners where elements 3 engages thereto) engaged by the first and second compression surfaces (3).

Claim 22 is further rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Haldeman (6,357,187 B1). Haldeman ('187) discloses a jamb protection device (10) comprising an adjustable resilient body (12), a first and second compression surface (22) responsive to the adjustable resilient body (12), and a first and second wall surface (44, the outer surfaces where elements 22 engages thereto) engaged by the first and second compression surfaces (22).

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. U.S. patent to Dearth discloses a hinge protector varying in thickness. U.S. patent to Weller discloses a jamb guard similar to that of the applicant's invention. U.S. patent to Freelove discloses a jamb protection device, which varies in thickness. U.S. patent to Raulerson et al. disclose a jamb protection device having slots extending along the length similar to that of the applicant's invention. U.S. patent to Dorner et al. disclose a protection device, which varies in thickness similar to that of the applicant's invention. U.S. patent to Adell discloses a edge guard which varies in thickness similar to that of the applicant's invention.
